XVI.—NO. 40. PORTLAND, OREGON: WEDNESDAY, MARCH 15, 1876. PRICE--TEN CENTS.

CONGRESSIONAL

Senate

WASHINGTON, March 14.

The bill to amend the [illegible] statutes so as to [illegible] with [illegible] was [illegible] and indefinitely postponed.

[illegible] the release of [illegible] from the committee on foreign affairs.

Logan [illegible] of $5,000 [illegible] asking for the passage of the bill for equalization of bounties similar to the one passed by last Congress [illegible].

[illegible] the bill fixing the salary of the President [illegible].

Sargent said he thought it was all [illegible] meanness in the part of the government to pay the President a salary far below what is paid to the representative of the British government residing at Washington. He didn't consider the present salary any too large.

Without further debate the [illegible] and the yeas and nays demanded.

Yeas—Allison, Bogy, Christiancy, Clayton, Cock[illegible], Conkling, Dawes, Ferry, Goldthwaite, Hamlin, Harvey, Hitchcock, Kernan, Key, [illegible] McCreery, McDonald, Merrimon, Morrill of Vermont, Morton, [illegible], Thurman, Wallace, [illegible], Wright—6.

Nays—Bayard, Boutwell, Cooper, Davis, Dorsey, Frelinghuysen, Hamlin, Howe, Ingalls, [illegible] of Nevada, McMillan, Mitchell, Paddock, Robertson, Sargent, Sharon, Spencer, Windom, Withers—[illegible], and the bill was passed. After an executive session the Senate adjourned.

House.

Atkins reported back the Senate amendments to the [illegible] appropriation bill which were concurred in.

Kasson said: In view of the increasing illness [illegible] members of the House and of the extraordinary bad ventilation which every one felt [illegible] this morning, he asked [illegible] to offer a resolution instructing the committee on public buildings [illegible] examine into the [illegible] to [illegible] the purity of the atmosphere.

Kelley said his object in coming to the House this morning was [illegible] to what [illegible] regarded as the ruinous atmosphere of the hall. On last Thursday he had sat for a few minutes feeling as though a blood [illegible] in his throat, that at [illegible] he was confronting the dread summons. He alluded to the dangerous illness of his colleague Ketchum, Wilson of West Virginia and others. He understood no less than [illegible] members were suffering from it.

Harrison, a member of the committee on public buildings and grounds, stated that a subcommittee of the committee on public buildings and grounds was now considering the subject alluded to by gentlemen who proposed to make a written statement of the defects and of the remedy. The ventilation was utterly [illegible] and something must be done and done immediately. Even if the cost were very large [illegible] a radical change in the construction of the hall it ought to be made.

Saylor, White of Kentucky, Young, Banks and others spoke on the same subject and Kasson's resolution was agreed to.

Sparks from the committee on Indian affairs reported a substitute for the bill to transfer the Indian bureau from the Interior Department to the War Department, and asked that it be made the special order for Saturday. A discussion took place between the members of the Indian committee and the military committee as to which of these committees had jurisdiction of the matter.

The bills of both committees were made the special order of Thursday [illegible], the bill of the Indian committee to have precedence over that of the military committee.

Glover, chairman of the select committee on the real estate pool and Jay Cooke indebtedness, made a report on the contumaciousness of a witness, Hallet Kilbourn, who refused to produce the books of his firm or answer the question as to who composed the real estate pool. The proceedings of the committee were read, from which it appeared that the real estate pool consisted, first, of five persons, who had contributed $5,000 each and who were subsequently assessed $2,000 each, and of Jay Cooke & Co., who had contributed $25,000, but did not pay any assessments. His firm was the agency through which the operation was to be conducted, and had subsequently purchased one of the original $5,000 shares, paying for it the exact amount with interest which it had cost the owner. He declined to give the name of the person whose interest has been thus purchased. He also declined giving any testimony relating to individuals composing the pool, and said if it could be shown that in any way the government was interested in it or that his testimony would promote the interest of the government in any way he would tell everything about it. In reply to this the chairman informed him that the committee did not propose to examine into his private affairs, but only into those that affected the public interest.

In response to his counsel, Mr Black, the witness stated that the matter had no relation whatever to any public affair. It was purely a private transaction, and there was no officer of the government of the United States or government of the District of Columbia connected with it. The conclusion of the committee is that it is necessary for the prosecution of the inquiry that Kilbourn be required to respond to the subpena duces tecum and to answer the questions which he had refused to answer.

Glover moved the adoption of the order that the Speaker issue a warrant to the sergeant-at-arms commanding him to take Kilbourn into custody and bring him to the House to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt. The order was made and the warrant issued.

The House then went into committee of the whole, Cox of New York in the chair, on the legislative appropriation bill, and was addressed by Bennett of Idaho.

The sergeant-at-arms appeared at the bar with Kilbourn, the recusant witness, in custody. Being asked whether he was prepared to answer questions put to him, he asked leave to be heard by his counsel, Mr [illegible] and Dudley Field. During the consideration of the question Glover intimated he understood from the witness he would be satisfied by having read a written argument prepared by his counsel.

Page insisted on the witness' right to be heard orally by counsel, and that view was advocated by Hoar and Conger, and opposed by Holman and Jenks. The proposition to be heard orally by counsel was laid on the table, and the written argument was read from the clerk's desk. On the conclusion of it the Speaker called upon the witness to rise, and addressing him he asked whether he was now prepared to answer the questions put to him by the committee, reading them to him in detail.

Kilbourn responded he respectfully declined for the reasons heretofore given.

The Speaker then asked whether he was prepared to produce his books and papers in obedience to the subpena duces tecum?

Kilbourn replied he was not.

Glover then offered a resolution committing the witness to the custody of the sergeant-at-arms and requiring that official to keep the witness in custody in the common jail of the District of Columbia until he should purge himself of his contempt. The resolutions were agreed to and the witness was removed by the sergeant-at-arms. Adjourned.

Revival of Warlike Feelings.

BELGRADE, March 14.—The warlike feeling which had subsided in consequence of Prince Milan's peaceful assurances [illegible] Prince Wrede while the latter was on a mission here seems to be now reappearing. Great pressure is brought by the war party upon Prince Milan and it is rumored that the national militia has been ordered to be ready to march at a moment's notice.

Organization of the French Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, March 14.—The Senate to-day elected Duke D'Audiffret Pasquier president and Martel and Duclerc of the Left and General [illegible] Admirault and Kerdrel of the Right vice presidents. The result [illegible] Jules Simon to the vice presidency. He however only obtained 109 votes while Kerdrel [illegible] [illegible] and Saint Vallier and Scherer [illegible] elected secretaries. [illegible]

Destructive Gale.

LONDON, March 14.—The gale of Sunday was very violent and destructive around the entire coast. Numerous shipping casualties are reported. An unknown brigantine was seen to founder [illegible] Landsend [illegible]. The sea was running tremendously high and [illegible] ships [illegible]. [illegible] communication was deranged to an unprecedented extent. In Paris [illegible] chimneys and trees were blown down [illegible] carried away. Numerous casualties are reported, some fatal. The damage in the [illegible] is greatly increased. In [illegible] a great number of [illegible] houses [illegible] were blown down. The gale was also violent on the French coast.

Abyssinian Defeat Confirmed

LONDON, March 14.—The Times to-day publishes a copy of the telegram received from the Khedive's private secretary [illegible] the defeat of the Abyssinians. The dispatch says the first [illegible] etc.

The Authenticity of the Phillips Report Doubted

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—The recent telegrams to the papers of the American Press Association, purporting to have emanated from D. T. Phillips, lately on the coast as special employe of the Treasury Department, in which assertions are made implicating Senator Sargent in the whisky frauds on this coast, and reflecting upon the conduct of the San Francisco custom house, have created considerable sensation here. A good deal of astonishment is expressed in some quarters that Phillips should have shown his hand before playing it. The most generally received opinion, however, among those best qualified to judge, is that Phillips never made any such assertions, but that the story was made up from nearly whole cloth, and telegraphed hence as a flyer, with the object of drawing out those engaged in investigating frauds and ascertaining how much they know, thus placing the parties under suspicion on their guard. It is known that parties in this city were anticipating just such a telegram as that first received, which goes to prove that dispatches were in consonance with a preconcerted arrangement.

Drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—A young German named Geo A Gerville, was drowned off Angel Island Sunday by the upsetting of a boat, in which he with a companion was rowing from the yacht Lotus to the island. His companion was found lying on the beach alive but insensible. Gerville was a nephew of J. G. H. Meyer, a well known merchant.

Illegal Outlay of City Funds.

The city attorney has filed with the supervisors a written opinion that the city has paid out $117,000 for street cleaning without any legal authority.

Interesting Case Decided.

Judge Dwinelle to-day decided a somewhat interesting case. The counsel for the Chinaman indicted for murder had demanded a mixed jury of Chinese and whites, citing the common law of England and the practice in New York. The judge held that the code requiring jurors to be citizens overrode the common law and denied the motion.

People vs. Granice.

FRESNO, March 14.—On the second day of the trial of the case of the People vs. Granice, on further proof of alterations in the indictment it was amended so as to read as originally presented. After argument the court decided that the indictment as it stands charges the defendant only with manslaughter.

Bank Suspension.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—Tallant & Co., bankers of this city, were notified this evening that the National Bank of the State of New York, their Eastern correspondent, had suspended. Their liabilities are not at present known, nor the cause of suspension authoritatively informed. Drexel, Morgan & Co. New York will pay all Tallant & Co.'s drafts on presentation. The suspension will not in the least affect Tallant & Co., except some temporary inconvenience.

Thanks to the California Legislature.

The Irish citizens held a meeting to-night to tender thanks to the legislature for the recent passage of the concurrent resolution asking Congress to endeavor to obtain the liberation of Edward O'Meagher, a condemned American citizen imprisoned in Great Britain for political offenses. There was a large attendance and a petition was drawn up to accompany the resolution.

Meeting of Pioneers.

The Pioneers held a meeting this evening with reference to matters in connection with the proposed Pioneers building at the Centennial. Steps were taken to raise funds for the purpose and secure the co-operation of the Women's Centennial committee in advancing the project.

NEVADA.

Snow Blockade Continues.

WELLS, March 14.—No movement of trains yet. The eastern train is still here and the western trains are at [illegible]. The snow plow and five engines started from here west this morning and about six miles from here threw the plow off the track and two engines down an embankment, seriously hurting [illegible], the engineer, and fatally injuring [illegible] Bedell, the fireman. Bedell had one leg cut off and the other broken in several places, besides other injuries.

WELLS, March 14.—The trains remain same as before reported, with no prospect of getting out for some time. Two snow plows and one engine are in the ditch at different places. The storm has abated, but the wind has not yet gone down, and the indications are that the [illegible] will be [illegible] which will result disastrously.

Bedell, the fireman, who was injured this morning, died from the effects of his injuries. His legs were literally crushed to a jelly between the tender and the fire box of his engine. The engineer is not dangerously hurt and will soon be out with proper care.

The company have hired some 200 men in addition to their force of snow shovelers now employed, who will be taken to the scene of work [illegible] in the morning.

Fatal Affray.

EUREKA, March 14.—Last evening, David Beall was fatally shot by Lawrence Lynch at Ruby Hill. It appears that Lynch had been informed that Beall had made threats against him, and meeting him in a saloon some words ensued which were followed by Lynch drawing a revolver and firing two shots, both bullets taking effect in the head and killing him almost instantly. Lynch claims that Beall made a motion as though he was about to draw a weapon, which, in connection with the threats he had heard of, [illegible] led him to suppose he was about to be attacked.

The Miners' Union and Richmond Mine

The members of the Miners' Union hearing yesterday that certain parties had been discharged from the Richmond mine on account of their adherence to the union organized at their hall and marched in a body to the mine for consultation. They were met by Superintendent Rickard and Rossiter the foreman, and after an interchange of views it was agreed that none but union men should be employed by the company after the expiration of thirty days. As to the other point of difference, the letting of contracts to non-union men or any other class of miners without [illegible], left open to general competition, Superintendent Rickard was allowed to take the subject under advisement.

Severe Storm.

The severest snow storm of the season prevailed here on Sunday and up to noon yesterday, attaining a depth in town of one foot.

UTAH.

Snow Slide

SALT LAKE, March 14.—This morning a snow slide occurred at Ophir, Utah, carrying away the boarding house of Foorman mine, and burying with it Wm. Huggins, Jas. Higginson and Thos. Lynch. No hopes of recovering their bodies at present. The snow storm is yet raging, and it is probable that much loss of life and property will follow.

LATER.—The bodies of two men buried in the snow slide at Ophir this morning were recovered to-day.

Escape of Prisoners.

The new marshal for Utah, Wm. Nelson, arrived here this morning. The warden of the penitentiary came in town to see him and on his return to the penitentiary he was knocked down and eight prisoners escaped. None of them yet recaptured.

THE CEDAR MINES OF NEW JERSEY

(From the Monmouth N. J. Democrat.)

Among the strange productions of Cape May are the cedar mines—swamps of dark miry stuff in which are buried immense trees of the white cedar, Cupressus thyoides of the botanists. These mines contain enormous trees, buried to a depth varying from three to ten feet. The logs lie across one another and there is abundant evidence that they are the growth of different successive forests. Indeed, in these very swamps forests of the same trees are now growing. The miners become very skillful at their work. The iron rod is thrust into the soft mud, over which often the water lies. In striking a buried tree the workman will by several soundings tell how it lies, which is its root end and how thick it is. He then manages to get a chip of the tree and by its smell determines at once whether it is worth the labor of mining, that is, the workman will tell unerringly whether the tree be a windfall or a breakdown. If a breakdown, it was so because it was decayed when standing; if a windfall the tree fell while sound, and has been preserved ever since by the antiseptic nature of the peat marsh in which it was buried. The soft earth is then removed. This makes a pit in the swamp. Into this the water soon flows and fills it up. This is rather an advantage. The saw is now introduced, and at regular intervals a cut is made through the tree when the log floats to the surface. It is curious that a log of a sound tree will be sure to turn over when it floats up, the lower side thus becoming uppermost. Trees in this way are sometimes obtained which will yield 10,000 shingles, worth $2 per thousand, thus one tree will yield $200. The age of such a tree, as the season rings have been counted, has been made out from ten to twelve hundred years and even more. A layer of such trees is found covered by another layer and these again by another, and even a third, while living trees may still be growing over all. It is evident, indeed, that New Jersey has experienced what the geologists call oscillations. Cape May contains abundant evidence of having been lifted out of a modern sea. The recent oyster and clam are found in natural beds just as they died in the ocean, but now in positions many feet higher than the contiguous oyster beds, while buried trees exist at depths lower than the beds of living mollusks.

THE LIVING SCHOOL

(Mrs. Hooper's Paris letter in Appleton's Journal.)

Does any lover of art, in an ecstacy before some fine painting representing two Venus or some undraped nymph, ever question himself or herself respecting the probable fate of the model from whose living beauty the artist has won the charm of his picture? Chance has recently made me acquainted with the history of one of those radiant originals whose graces have been immortalized by art. When visiting the studio of the celebrated artist Lefebvre I paused in admiration before the original sketch of that exquisite image of pure and girlish loveliness, the "Chloe," that was one of the gems of the last salon, and that in photographic reproduction has proved so immensely popular. "The model who sat to me for that picture," said M. Lefebvre, "was but seventeen years of age, and so exquisite was her form in outline and proportion, that I was scarcely obliged to alter or idealize a single line. She sat to me during the entire winter, and in the spring I quitted Paris to travel through Holland and Belgium. On my return I found that the poor young creature was dead. She was a girl of more refinement and elevation of sentiment than is usually to be found among persons of her position, and being in the hands of a gang of low confederates they had attempted to force her into a way of life from which her soul revolted. Thus driven to despair, the poor child poisoned herself by washing phosphorus from friction matches and then swallowing the decoction. She was taken to the hospital, where she died in a few hours, and as her unnatural relatives refused to claim the body, it was handed over to the doctors at the establishment for dissection. Had I been in Paris," added the artist in a tone of deep feeling, "I could have saved her from that last indignity, at least." Such was the final destination of that fair and exquisite form, which, reproduced with that chaste idealization which has made Lefebvre the purest of all painters of the nude, remains one of the most refined and delicate of all modern representations of the female form divine.

THE CURIOSITIES OF THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.—A Washington special to the Chicago Times says: At the expiration of the morning hour Senator Anthony secured the consideration of his joint resolution to make the Congressional Record an exact transcript of the proceedings and debates of Congress, and proceeded to make a few remarks thereon. He explained the advantage of having a complete record of Congressional proceedings, and [illegible] its continuance. Then he rehearsed the evils which followed an incorrect report of the proceedings, and cited examples of the abuses which have grown up which make the Record, as it is at present conducted, utterly unreliable. He cited an instance where a member of the lower House [illegible] asked and obtained leave to have printed a so-called speech on the necessity of recognizing the [illegible] which turned out to be a virulent and unjustifiable attack upon [illegible] Mr. Sumner, which would never have been allowed utterance in the House. He [illegible] a laughable instance where within 100 pages of each other the same speech almost word for word appears credited to two different members, and are also [illegible] have been delivered on two entirely different occasions and on two different subjects. At the conclusion of his speech, Hamlin, Windom, Morrill of Vermont and others crowded around him with their congratulations and extensions of [illegible]. Hamlin, who is expected to speak upon [illegible]. The resolution went referred to the committee on printing.

At the coming June election in this State representatives are to be elected as follows: In the counties of Baker two, Benton [illegible], Clackamas four, Clatsop and Tillamook [illegible], Columbia one, Coos one, Coos and Curry, one, Douglas four, Grant one, Jackson three, Josephine one, Lane four, Linn, six, Marion six, Multnomah seven, Polk three, Umatilla two, Union two, Wasco two, Washington three, Yamhill three. In all, sixty members.

OREGON

The location of the county seat is agitating the people of Lake county.

The Daily Democrat of Albany will appear as an afternoon paper hereafter.

Maj. Gen. Huston, of Boise City, has been appointed U. S. Attorney for Utah.

The Salem [illegible] says [illegible] selling it from [illegible].

Marion county [illegible] as the county fund for the current fiscal year.

Mr. W. D. Belding, a prominent [illegible] of Albany, is in a precarious condition from taking an overdose of colchicum seed, a very strong poison.

A great deal more [illegible] in Umatilla county than ever before. Weston expects to ship 10,000 bushels of [illegible] should be good.

Citizens of Grant county have sent to Washington a petition asking that the office of the U. S. land district of Eastern Oregon be moved to Baker City.

A couple of Chinamen while mining on Jackass, Jackson county, were caught by a cave of dirt and received injuries from which, we learn, they both died.

A letter from Jackson county says the farmers are courageously battling against rain and mud in order to get in their crops and are doing well, considering.

There has been very little snow at Linkville all winter. Out on the lake there was about a foot of snow and probably more further north, towards Fort Klamath.

Latest report from Klamath says the winter has been quite severe, and should the bad weather continue considerable stock will perish, as hay is getting scarce.

Last Saturday Grant Williamson, aged 7 years, son of Mr. Philip Williamson, living in Benton county, while trying to mount a gentle pony, fell and broke his right forearm at the wrist.

Parties lately from the Fort Lane diggings, Jackson county, report the prospects even better than ever. Pieces of gold weighing $50 and $10 as also smaller ones, have been picked up within the past few days.

Stock in John Day valley looks well. The past winter has been mild, with but little snow or severe weather, and stock have kept in fine order out on the range. The butchers have no trouble to procure fat beef cattle.

The large nugget picked up in the Fort Lane diggings, Oregon, some time ago by Jas. McDonough, weighs about 26 ounces, but contains some quartz. The value of this handsome specimen is between $300 and $400 in gold.

The Secretary of the Interior has refused to grant the petition of citizens of [illegible], Oregon, asking that the western boundary of Malheur Indian reservation be changed so as to throw open to the whites the valleys of Silvies and Harney Lake.

Jacksonville cast 136 votes at her municipal election last week. M. Caton, Newman Fisher, J. Nunan, Geo. Brown and David Cronemiller were elected trustees, U. S. Hayden, Recorder, Henry Pape, Treasurer, and James P. McDaniel, Marshal.

The freezing of Klamath lake drove millions of wild ducks down to the open streams or outlets on the south. Being out of shot in that section, those who wanted to kill them did so with the rifle, one man killing three ducks on one occasion by one bullet.

We are in receipt of No. 1, Vol. 1 of the Grant County Express, published at Canyon City. It is a very fair newspaper for the locality and should be well patronized by the people of Grant county, as it proclaims itself the especial champion of the interests of that section of our State.

The annual election of directors of the Albany Fruit Preserving Company for the ensuing year took place at the company's office Monday afternoon, with the following result: Allen Parker, P. C. Harper, Dr. G. F. Crawford, A. Baltimore, W. Q. Stewart, John Parker, A. N. Arnold.

There are fifteen State Senators to be elected in Oregon in June, as follows: Benton and Polk jointly one, Clackamas, one, Coos and Curry, one, Douglas, two, Josephine, one, Lane, one, Linn, one, Multnomah, two, Polk one, Union one, Wasco, one, Washington, one, Yamhill one.

Henry Bowman, of Umatilla county, last week sold to Daniel Young, of Kittitas valley, W. T., 300 sheep culled from his band of over 2,000, at $2.25 per head, receiving the cash therefor. J. H. Sharon sold to the same party 300 head culled from his band, at $3 [illegible] per head. These prices are considered low, just before shearing.

A bloodless affray occurred on Butte creek, Jackson county, last week between Arthur Pool and Wm. Sutherland, originating over some trivial matter. Words were first the instruments of warfare, and soon came to blows and stones, when Sutherland rushed into his house and procured a pistol, which he fired at Pool, but missed him.

Last week Governor Grover recommissioned the following persons Notaries Public for the State of Oregon: J. N. Smith, Peoria, and R. S. Strahan, Albany, Linn county; E. W. Reynolds, Baker City, Baker county; and appointed J. R. Bryson, of Corvallis, Benton county, and George W. Barnes, of Prineville, Ochoco valley, Wasco county.

The Jacksonville Sentinel says: "The coming spring and summer will afford a good opportunity to prospect for new diggings, water being abundant everywhere to permit a thorough test. There are many sections where water has been scarce that have never been prospected, and should they be found to contain gold in good paying quantity it would be an inducement to bring water to such places."

The Democrats of Baker county have nominated their ticket for the June election. It is as follows: For Representatives: J. D. Haines, A. J. Lawrence; Sheriff, R. C. George; for County Clerk, George W. Parker; Treasurer, S. Ottenheimer; Assessor, L. B. Rinehart; for County Commissioners, William Gleen, Strother [illegible]; County Surveyor, C. L. Means; for School Superintendent, S. H. Small; Coroner, Dr. J. B. Halsey.

A letter from Buena Vista to the Albany Democrat, dated March 10th, says: "The supposed suicide of John Frost at your city lately is a failure. If it was not he would not make his usual appearance, despite of all the reports regarding his turbulent life, history and his tragical death. I saw the aforesaid John Frost in town yesterday, not dead, but walking erect, much after the manner of a man who still lives, moves and has his being."

About one fourth of a mile from [illegible], Linn county, in the direction of Alta, Mr. Sturtevant had a stack of hay containing about fifteen tons, and John Carr another stack [illegible] an interest in Mr. Sturtevant's of eight tons more. This hay was fired by some miscreant on Tuesday morning last week about 2 o'clock (as is supposed), and, of course, entirely consumed. No doubt is entertained by the good people in that section that the hay was set on fire. The stacks were off the line of travel and no person had occasion to go there, and there are other reasons not necessary to state why such a conclusion is arrived at.

A letter from [illegible] Flat, [illegible] county, says: "The squirrels are not so numerous this spring as they were last. [illegible] we have invented a machine with which we think they can be exterminated. We burn sulphur and rags in the machine and blow the smoke into their holes. It has proved an entire success, as we have dug them out dead from 15 to 20 feet from where the smoke was blown into the hole. For two years past the squirrels have destroyed our wheat and oats entirely. Everybody was discouraged and had given up the hope of trying to raise grain any more. But the introduction of this machine and the success attending its use seems to have infused new life into our [illegible] plagued section. Everybody is breaking all the sod they can and preparing to sow a big wheat crop this fall."

SCENES AT THE OPENING SESSION

The London [illegible], of [illegible] 10, has the following account of the scenes incidental to the opening of Parliament by the Queen:

A few moments before 2 o'clock the royal procession set out, preceded by the Life Guards, after whom came six state carriages, each drawn by six horses adorned with the magnificent trappings proper to occasions of state. In the carriage immediately preceding that of Her Majesty were the Duchess of Wellington and the Countess of Erroll. Then came more Life Guards and the Yeomen of the Guard in their bright old fashioned "Beefeaters" costume, delightful to look upon in cold weather, but actually Tudor or not, and then, not the wonderful gilt coach of state, but a handsome state carriage, drawn by eight of the famous cream colored horses, gorgeously caparisoned and decked with blue ribbons and rosettes. From the windows of the carriage, closed in consequence of the inclemency of the temperature, bowed in graceful acknowledgment of the greeting which they received the Queen and the Princess of Wales, with whom was the Princess Beatrice. Her Majesty, whose dress was entirely concealed by a robe of royal ermine, wore a miniature crown of superb pearls. The Princess of Wales was also robed in royal ermine and wore a coronet of pearls and diamonds and a black velvet necklet studded with gems. For a few moments, but only for a few, it seemed as if the icy air had frozen the loyalty out of her Majesty's subjects, but the most cordial cheering must have a beginning, and the faint hurrah which greeted the first appearance of the royal carriage quickly gathered volume, being taken up and re-echoed along the line of march by thousands of lusty throats, and accompanied by the waving of hats and handkerchiefs. As the procession advanced along the Mall the cheering increased in intensity, and was redoubled when a faint hiss, probably prompted more by mischief than actual disloyalty, made itself heard. Close behind the royal carriage walked, clad in gowns of red and blue and velvet caps, the two officers who invariably excite the public curiosity at those pageants in which they are privileged to take part—her Majesty's farrier and collar maker. Close behind these rode the Master of the Horse, and then came more Life Guards glittering in steel and scarlet.

THE SCENE IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS

Like the temporal peers, the Bishops had relinquished their usual seats, retaining only the front bench. The seats at the back of this were railed off and appropriated to the use of the Diplomatic Corps. Early arrivals of this distinguished body were the Spanish Minister and Gen. Schenck, the representative of the United States, who wore the uniform of his rank in the American army. Count Beust, the Austrian ambassador, was the first representative of the great European powers to present himself, and he took his seat at the end of the front bench furthest from the throne. The tall figure of Count Munster was presently seen towering high above the Duke of Richmond, with whom, in passing, he stopped to chat. Count Schouvaloff took his seat next to Count Beust, then Count Munster placed himself, then the Marquis d'Harcourt, and late and last Musurus Pacha, glittering with gold lace, diamonds, and orders of merit and capped with a plain crimson fez. While the Queen yet tarried the representatives of Austria, Germany, Russia, France and Turkey chatted in friendliest fashion. When the Bishops arrived, preceded by the Bishop of Lichfield, who had the bench all to himself for nearly half an hour, they disposed themselves partly on the solitary bench reserved for them and principally on the broad cushioned bench in front of the woolsack.

Up to this time semi-darkness still reigned in the House, and a thin mist partially obscured the long lines of color that led up to the solitary, empty space where the throne stood, with the state robes of the sovereign spread open upon it. But at a signal from the Lord Chancellor a flood of light fell upon the scene from the gaseliers in the roof, lighting up the fair faces, the softly colored dresses, and the boundless wealth of jewelry that glistened on arm and neck and breast and head, and trembled like a sea of light with every movement of the wearers. While the buzz of conversation which the sudden transformation scene thus simply effected was at its height, the Duke of Teck entered unnoticed and stood near the steps to the left of the throne. A few minutes later, with a swift rustling sound the whole company rose to their feet and silently welcomed the Duchess of Edinburg and the Duchess of Teck, who entered escorted by the Duke of Edinburg and the Duke of Cambridge. The royal ladies were led to the woolsack which the Lord Chancellor vacated, and were seated facing the throne. The Duchess of Edinburgh wore a dress of blue velvet trimmed with sable. Her head was adorned with a coronet of diamonds, and as she sat with her back to the general company there might be caught a glimpse of a scarlet ribbon worn crossways over her breast and caught behind by a diamond clasp. Both the Duke of Edinburgh and the Duke of Cambridge wore the insignia of a [illegible] Peer's robe, but underneath were plainly visible, on the one the uniform of a captain in the navy, and on the other that of a field marshal in the army. The royal Dukes sat at the end of the front opposition bench, closer to the throne. At 2:00 the head of the royal procession arrived, in the persons of the four gorgeously clad heralds, who, bowing low as they passed before the royal ladies seated on the wool sack, crossed and took up a position to the left of the throne. Then followed Norroy King of Arms, Clarenceux King of Arms, Garter King of Arms, the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, and the Earl Marshal, who, each stopping to bow to the two Duchesses, crossed over and with other officials and court dignitaries, stood in a dazzling group to the left of the throne.

THE QUEEN

Once more the company rose as the Queen entered, the Marquis of Winchester and the Duke of Richmond preceding her, the one bearing the Cap of Maintenance and the other clasping with both hands the Sword of State. As the Queen turned to the left to take her place on the throne the Princess of Wales lightly stepped forward and sat down in the center of the woolsack, her slight figure set between those of the Duchess of Teck and the Duchess of Edinburgh. The Queen was dressed in a robe of imperial purple, so dark that it might almost have passed for black. On her head, surmounting the white pointed cap familiar in many of her portraits, was a miniature crown of diamonds. Round her neck was a magnificent necklace of diamonds, a large diamond glistened like a star on her breast, and the jewel of the Order of the Garter shone on the broad blue band of ribbon she wore across her shoulder. Conspicuous among so much splendor were the simple black fan her Majesty carried, and the black gloves which covered hands and wrists. The Princess Beatrice and the Princess Louise, who followed close behind, had accompanied Her Majesty to the throne and during the ceremony remained standing on either side. The Princess Louise wore a dress of black silk, slashed with bars of black velvet, and the Princess Beatrice a [illegible] colored dress trimmed with dark green velvet. As the Queen took her seat on the throne she nearly lost her crown owing to the entanglement of her long white strings, which fell backward from the cap, and which, as Her Majesty seated herself, caught under her dress, and almost pulled the cap off her head. The Princess Beatrice succeeded, not without difficulty, in rescuing the strings, and a footstool being placed by the Lord Great Chamberlain, Her Majesty was finally arranged on the throne, the robe of state being gently thrown over her left shoulder by the Princess Louise.

The perfect silence which reigned through the chamber after the Queen was seated was broken by the rush of many feet, and from behind the bar was seen advancing the Speaker of the House of Commons, with the sergeant-at-arms carrying the mace, and close at their backs a turbulent throng of gentlemen. These were the "Gentlemen of the House of Commons" to whom a portion of the speech was specially addressed, and when they had arranged themselves, not without considerable noise and some cries of "Order" from noble lords comfortably seated on the floor of the House, the Lord Chancellor advanced to the foot of the throne, and kneeling, offered Her Majesty the document containing the speech. Her Majesty mutely signed to the Lord Chancellor to keep it, and rising, his lordship returned to his old position at the empty chair of the Prince of Wales, and there read the speech in a voice which resounded to the uttermost parts of the chamber. When the end was reached the Queen rose and, bowing first to the left and then to the right, walked out, followed by the princesses and the procession, having opened Parliament without uttering a single word. As she departed, the brilliant company rapidly melted away, and the session of 1876 had commenced.

BURNING THE DEAD

AN ANCIENT CUSTOM REVIVED IN ITALY—A TEMPLE OF CREMATION IN MILAN—ALBERTO KELLER'S LEGACY—AN INTERESTING CEREMONY.

(Correspondence of the N. Y. Times.)

The latest sensation in Milan is a genuine case of cremation which occurred at one of the principal cemeteries last month. It appears that a wealthy German gentleman named Alberto Keller, who resided there for many years previous to his death, was a strict believer in the theory of cremation, and in his will provided that a temple of cremation should be built in the Cemeterio Monumentale (where he had previously erected a handsome family tomb), and presented to the city Milan, and that when it should be ready for use his remains were to be cremated therein and his ashes deposited in the family tomb.

About two years ago Mr. Keller bade adieu to things terrestrial and his body was embalmed and consigned to the vault underneath the tomb. Shortly afterwards experiments were commenced by Messrs. Clericetti and Polli, a system was invented which was perfected and a temple of cremation was built in the cemetery.

The building is a miniature model of the ancient Roman temples, and stands on a piece of ground about fifty feet square. Fifteen solid stone pillars, about eighteen feet in height and two in thickness, placed in a circle, support a dome shaped roof, which is in turn surmounted by the figure of an urn. In the center, reached by four or five steps, is a large stone sarcophagus, some seven or eight feet long and about three in width. On each side are three round black marble slabs, on the center one of which is a white cross. The slab at one end acts as a door, being moved up and down by invisible machinery. In the interior of the sarcophagus are a large number of iron ribs extending from one side to the other and uniformly curved downward slightly in the center. Underneath this grid iron arrangement is a platform of iron from which projects a forest of gas burners.

Along the sides of the receptacle, just above the iron bars, are rows of round knob-like buttons, with a hole in the center; these are also used for the issue of gas jets—the total number of which in the sarcophagus amounts to 217. The force of gas employed, as well as the machinery which opens and shuts the ponderous door, is controlled from a small brick building some ten or fifteen feet in the rear of the edifice, the connecting machinery being under ground. On the front of the temple, under the dome, is a tablet with an inscription of which the following is a translation: "Cremation Temple, donated, at the desire of the noble Alberto, to the city of Milan."

After the completion of the edifice, the inventors experimented upon the carcasses of dogs and other animals, for the purpose of determining how great degree of heat and what time were necessary to consume a human body. Everything being necessary, last Saturday, the second anniversary of Keller's death, was fixed upon to practically test upon the remains of the founder the purpose for which the temple was erected. On that day, at 2 o'clock, the inventors of the system, accompanied by some of the principal relatives of the deceased, the principal municipal officers and a large number of scientific men and journalists, representing the principal cities of Europe, assembled at the Keller tomb. At 2 o'clock the body was taken from its casket in the vault and placed in a thin wooden case which was covered with a black cloth. The features of the corpse were as natural as on the day on which it was entombed, two years before. Preceded by the clergyman of the Evangelical Church, of which Keller had been a member, the body, followed by the assemblage who had gathered to witness the ceremony, was taken to the temple of cremation.

On arriving at the mausoleum, the clergyman in attendance made a few remarks, during which the body was deposited in front of the sarcophagus. In his address the reverend gentleman said that the ceremony of cremation was not against the accepted forms of burial, in that form it offered an example of the fleeting existence of matter, and in the action of the destroying flames might be seen the symbol of the soul that, liberating itself from the body, flies to heaven, purified and immortal.

At the close of his remarks a signal was given, the ponderous door of the sarcophagus disappeared downward, revealing the gas jets burning faintly in the interior—a mass of fire. The remains of Alberto Keller were raised and slid into the sarcophagus, resting on the grid-iron. The heavy door rose up again, as if by magic, and settled into its position. The gas was turned on to its full force, and the body was submitted to a temperature of over 1,000 grade, or something more than 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

While the mortal remains of Alberto Keller were being subjected to the process of cremation Prof. F. Colletti, of Padua, to whom belongs the honor of the victory of cremation reform in Italy, addressed those present.

Dr. Pini, of Milan, followed in a few remarks in favor of the cremation theory, and referred to the completeness of the invention in which the remains of the founder were then being consumed. Of the terrific heat which raged therein, the solid Verona stone of which the sarcophagus was built gave no outward indication.

At the end of three quarters of an hour the gas was extinguished, the inventor remarking that the remains of Mr. Keller were then reduced to ashes. He added that they would remain until the following day in the sarcophagus, at which time they would be retransferred to his tomb. The assemblage thereupon slowly dispersed, and the temple of cremation was left in solitude and silence.

Next day the sarcophagus was opened in the presence of one or two relatives of the deceased and his ashes collected and placed in a white marble casket about the size of a lady's work basket and placed on a small altar facing the door of the tomb. On a tablet underneath the casket is the inscription "Ceneri di Alberto Keller" (Ashes of Albert Keller). The grated iron door of the tomb offers a full view of the interior, which is handsomely decorated with flowers, etc., and the tomb, which is in the Protestant portion of the cemetery, is daily visited by numbers of curious Milanese, who are desirous of looking upon the receptacle of the ashes of one who had been the originator of an epoch in the civilized world.

WEDNESDAY MORNING MAR[illegible] 18[illegible]

[illegible] perhaps [illegible] nce [illegible] than [illegible] this [illegible] from marsh [illegible] other uncontaminated places as that which is contaminated by long [illegible] shut up rooms [illegible] breathed [illegible] the blood passing [illegible] the lungs is brought in [illegible] with the air breathed [illegible] oxygen [illegible] carbonic acid gas which is [illegible] the air breathed [illegible] is harmful to the human system [illegible] slightly close [illegible] quantity of pure air [illegible] will very [illegible] to poison all who may [illegible] Mr Hartley, Demonstrator of [illegible] King's College London, has recently published a work on "Air and its [illegible]" which contains much valuable information and instruction on this subject. Air, he says, in its natural state contains about three parts of carbonic acid in a thousand. If that quantity be [illegible] the quality of [illegible] The amount of air given off by a healthy man in an hour is from six to seven tenths of a cubic foot, about the same that would be produced by two good candles, while a good gas burner will yield in the same time about six cubic feet. For equal illuminating power however candles yield a larger amount of impurity than pure gas would do. From this it is clear that a man seated in a room with two lighted candles would require 6,000 cubic feet of air in an hour in order to keep the atmosphere from becoming uncomfortably vitiated. In rooms properly constructed this is attained, but there is one source of ventilation to which Mr Hartley draws attention which has not hitherto been sufficiently noticed. It is due to the passage of air through the walls themselves, and this has been shown to take place even when these walls are constructed of brick or stone and plastered and papered.

Pettenkofer, a German savant, says he found that an ordinary room in his house with a German stove, and not an open English fire place, the walls being of brick and the capacity about 2,650 cubic feet, had its entire contents changed once in an hour, when the difference between the inside and outside temperature was 34°, the doors and windows being closely shut. When a fire was lighted in the stove, the change rose to 3,320 cubic feet per hour, although all openings and crevices in doors and windows had been pasted up. But while the difference between the external and internal temperatures was lessened 7° the change fell to 750 cubic feet.

Dr Angus Smith, of London, made some noteworthy experiments to ascertain the proportion of carbonic acid in the air in some public places in that city. He found in the Court of Chancery, at a height of three feet from the ground that the air contained no less than 20 parts of carbonic acid in 10,000. In the boxes of the Surrey theater at midnight the proportion was 21.8, in the dress circle at the Haymarket, 7.57 and in the pit of the Standard theater 3[illegible] In Covent Garden theater near a ventilator, Mr Hartley found 11.8 parts in 10,000 and in the lower gallery of Drury Lane 27 parts. This is amply sufficient to account for the headache and drowsiness which often attend a visit to the theater.

Besides the carbonic acid contained in impure air there is an almost infinite number of spores of poisonous matter varying in size from the ten thousandth to the fifty-thousandth of an inch in diameter. It has been calculated that in the amount of air breathed by an average sized man during a period of ten hours there would be no less than thirty-seven and a half millions of spores visible under a magnifying power of sixteen hundred diameters.

From these facts it is clear that the danger attending the occupation of ill ventilated rooms is not slight, and that, if we would escape the diseases which take their rise in the poisoning of the blood, particularly diphtheria, consumption and typhoid, we should take care that a plentiful supply of fresh pure air is constantly brought into our living rooms.

The condition of the atmosphere in the hall of the House of Representatives is so bad that several members of the House have been made ill by it. Mr Kasson introduced a resolution which was passed to inquire into the cause of [illegible] and to provide a [illegible] It is [illegible] the hall [illegible] by means of [illegible] work well and had [illegible] adopted.

RIGHTS OF FISHERMEN ON THE COLUMBIA RIVER

Judge Green of Washington Territory has rendered the following important decision in the case of McGowan vs Petit, et al, in equity. McGowan is the owner of a land claim on Chinook beach opposite Astoria. The claim only extends to high water mark. Defendants claim the right to fish and haul their nets [illegible] and [illegible] water mark. [illegible] McGowan [illegible] appears the following opinion:

There is no question but that the [illegible] McGowan's land is navigable. It is a great [illegible] highway (Mayor of Lynn [illegible]) [illegible] Lord Holt [illegible] [illegible] Fisheries [illegible] Davies [illegible]

[illegible] the case of Pollard [illegible] the power of [illegible] McGowan's land is ordinary high water mark [illegible] the United States had no power to convey to [illegible] that boundary.

Now I find the fact to be that neither of [illegible] have, at any time [illegible] in the complaint trespassed [illegible] threatened to trespass on complainant's upland. They have inflicted [illegible] upon the adjacent shore and [illegible] their nets but always below ordinary high water mark.

Springs then this question: Does McGowan, by virtue of owning the upland, have such a proprietary right in the shore bordering his upland that he can enjoin defendants against pursuing such fishing operations? I think not. Nor has any case or text come to hand that speaks to the contrary. Whatever is the common law is conclusive of this question in this Territory.

In England all soil between high and low water marks belongs to the crown until conveyed by express grant (Attorney General vs Richards 2 Anst. 603) and in this country to the State or State to be where situated. And in either country the proprietor of the upland contiguous to the shore has in general no greater right to the shore than others who have no interest in the upland (Angell on Tide Waters p. 22). The only known possible exception to this general rule wherever the common law exists unchanged is when the proprietor of the adjoining upland builds a wharf or makes other improvement conducive to the public advantage. In Massachusetts and perhaps other States however, by common usage now become local common law the owner of lands bounded on the sea or salt water holds to low water mark (Storer vs Freeman 6 Mass. 435). In this Territory a changed common law like that in Massachusetts does not obtain.

All the adjudged English cases that I remember to have seen where the public right of any person to go upon a particular shore has been denied have been cases wherein either by pleading it was admitted or on trial proved that the particular shore belonged by express or particular title to the proprietor of the neighboring land. Thus in the famous case of Blundell vs Catterall (5 Barn & Ald 91) it appeared that plaintiff was lord of the manor and the owner of the shore. In Chad vs Tilsed (2 Brod & Bing, 403) the court upon special evidence, deraigning the shore to plaintiff, adjudged the title to be in him. So too in Ward vs Cresswell (Willes 265) the soil was found to be in the claimant of the private right. On the other hand when private right has been denied it has been denied by affirmance of the public right because no private right appeared. For as is quaintly said by Lord Hale in Fitzwalter's case (1 Mod 105) "if any one will appropriate a privilege to himself, the proof lyeth on his side." And so agrees Carter et al vs Murcot et al (4 Burrows 2172). Thus in Bagott vs Orr (2 Bos & Pull 472)—trespass quare clausum fregit—it was resolved that "if plaintiff had it in his power to abridge the common law right to take shellfish, he should have replied the matter specially."

In the case at bar McGowan has no proprietary right in the shore contiguous to his upland and has therefore, no standing in court as proprietor to seek to restrain defendant's movements on the shore. There is no cause shown to restrain them from coming on his upland for they have not ventured or threatened to venture there.

The complaint is dismissed and a decree will be drawn and entered accordingly.

Some curious relics were found in the old elm of Boston Common. A flattened bullet was discovered imbedded in the trunk 18 rings from the center and beneath the tree was a medal, which is inscribed as follows: It is of large size of copper or bronze and has a medallion head on one side and on the other figures of Justice with scales and sword, and of religion with a cross and a circular temple in the background with a date which seems to be 1661 or MDCIII. The obverse side of the medal bears the following inscription: Franc I Par [illegible] Plac [illegible] which in English would read, Francis I Duke of Parma and Piacenza. BROKE [illegible] FORGED CHECK.—Reference wa[illegible] made a few days since to the extraordinar[illegible] conduct of Capt Netterville U S A of Van[illegible] couver and the sudden and unaccountabl[illegible] disappearance of that officer. As is now [illegible] made at the time to the probable cause of h[illegible] disappearance being, as was then believed, [illegible] irregularities in his accounts. Not[illegible] whatever has been heard or seen of Nette[illegible] ville since he spirited himself away, and t[illegible] general supposition is that he is at present [illegible] Victoria. Since the disappearance of that off[illegible] it has been discovered that to his allege[illegible] defalcations can be added that of forger[illegible] Shortly before he left Netterville presented [illegible] at one of the banks in this city for $50[illegible] check, purporting to have been signed [illegible] signed or purporting to have been signed by [illegible] King of New York, colonel of the Nint[illegible] Infantry and superintendent of the gener[illegible] recruiting service. Netterville [illegible] the check which has subsequently been asce[illegible] forgery. It is supposed th[illegible] perpetrated the forgery him[illegible] Netterville or got some one else to do so for him.

[illegible] Yesterday [illegible] the case of the State of Oregon vs [illegible] indicted for keeping a house on Morriso[illegible] street between Second and Third street[illegible] where opium has been sold [illegible] and adults resorting thereto for smoking [illegible] was held by the circuit court on [illegible] sense it was held by the circuit court on d[illegible] manner that the offense was not indictab[illegible] under the laws of this State. In delivering [illegible] his opinion the court remarked that the [illegible] attention of the legislature should be called [illegible] subject and expressed the hope that the ne[illegible] legislature would pass the requisite law. [illegible] the meantime if parents do not take intere[illegible] enough in their children to prevent their visi[illegible] such places as the one in question, the [illegible] influence of [illegible] fathers should pass an ordinance similar [illegible] the one adopted in San Francisco that w[illegible] reach the difficulty. The opium smoki[illegible] habit is one of the most pernicious that c[illegible] be indulged, and the restriction of the l[illegible] should be thrown over those unfortuna[illegible] who have not the moral power to cont[illegible] themselves.

REWARD OFFERED.—Sheriff Jeffery offers [illegible] reward of $1,000 for the rearrest of Mil[illegible] Shepardson alias "Hommy," who broke [illegible] last Monday evening. Shepardson is [illegible] described as follows: About 40 years old, ab[illegible] five feet eight inches in height, dark ey[illegible] Spanish cast [illegible] complexion, dark piercing [illegible] shoulder drops wh[illegible] countenance, light [illegible] dark and sligh[illegible] walking or standing, [illegible] changed with gray [illegible] out of r[illegible] mustache when he escaped, one tooth [illegible] upper jaw [illegible] motions and eyes [illegible] less. One thousand dollars reward or a [illegible] proportionate part thereof for information le[illegible] to his arrest, will be paid for his app[illegible] hension and delivery to the sheriff. [illegible] exchange through the State and Washing[illegible] Territory are requested to publish the abo[illegible] as the same may lead to his recapture.

SURPRISE PARTY.—Under the auspices o[illegible] committee of ladies and gentlemen, a la[illegible] crowd of the friends of Rev Mr [illegible] the Taylor Street M E Church assembled [illegible] the residence of J L Jones and then [illegible] paired in a body to the parsonage, where [illegible] Rev gentleman and his excellent lady [illegible] ceived them in their usual friendly man[illegible] The rooms of the parsonage were filled w[illegible] the crowd and the evening passed away [illegible] too quick as music, social converse, etc, [illegible] speed to the wings of time. During the ev[illegible] ing a bountiful repast was partaken and [illegible] feast of reason was moderately mingled w[illegible] the feast of victuals. Mr and Mrs Ben[illegible] during their residence here have drawn aro[illegible] them a large circle of warm friends as [illegible] gathering in question testifies.

AD EDGAR.—In speaking of this [illegible] known stage driver and messenger the W[illegible] Walla Union says: "Ad Edgar who in fo[illegible] er times carried our express to Montana f[illegible] here and subsequently acted as messenger [illegible] Wells Fargo & Co, between this and ot[illegible] points, was in town last Saturday for the [illegible] time in eight years. Ad it will be rem[illegible] bered was driving the Canyon City stag[illegible] the time it was robbed by Doc Phelps [illegible] confederates. He is very confident that [illegible] men now arrested are the ones who stop[illegible] him and that Frank Tompkins and comp[illegible] ions who now linger in the Oregon penit[illegible] tiary for that offense, will be speedily resto[illegible] to that liberty of which they were depri[illegible] by malice and circumstantial evidence.

PAY UP! TAX UP!—Tax-payers are [illegible] minded that the time is drawing near w[illegible] all city taxes must be paid, or else returned [illegible] linquent. Mr Jos Bachman, the city trea[illegible] er, will be pleased to furnish receipts and [illegible] sign manual to all who call at his of[illegible] with the necessary bullion." The tax-[illegible] is in his hands and will remain there u[illegible] the 26th of this month. On that date, [illegible] thirty days will have expired, and he wil[illegible] compelled to return all who have not p[illegible] delinquent. A word to the wise ought to [illegible] sufficient.

U S GRAND JURY.—The following pers[illegible] have been summoned to attend the M[illegible] term of the U S district court and were [illegible] empaneled yesterday morning: Wm Da[illegible] son, G H Hughes, A A [illegible] Step[illegible] Stan, J D Gwinn, John Collins, Elisha [illegible] Daniels, W H James, John Green, [illegible] Wardman, Geo Marshal, S P Gibson, J [illegible] O'Connor, J [illegible] Irvine Claggett [illegible] Opitz, Nathan Pond, Robert Foster, A[illegible] Settlemeir, W Q Stewart.

CITY.

Burning a Forged Check.—Reference was made a few days since to the extraordinary conduct of Capt. Netterville U S A of Vancouver, and the sudden and unaccountable disappearance of that officer All reason was assigned at the time to the probable cause of his sudden disappearance being, as was then believed, alleged irregularities in his accounts Nothing whatever has been heard or seen of Netterville since he spirited himself away and the general supposition is that he is at present in Canada. Since the disappearance of that officer it has been discovered that to his alleged peculations can be added that of forgery. Shortly before he left, Netterville presented a check at one of the banks in this city for $800 signed or purporting to have been signed by Gen King of New York colonel of the Ninth Infantry and superintendent of the general recruiting service Netterville endorsed the check, which has subsequently been discovered to be a forgery It is supposed that Netterville either perpetrated the forgery himself, or got some one else to do so for him

State Legislation Needed.—Yesterday in the case of the State of Oregon vs Chin Tchun indicted for keeping a house on Morrison street between Second and Third streets wherein opium has been sold and smoked by boys and adults creating a demoralizing influence, it was held by the circuit court on demurrer, that the offense was not indictable under the laws of this State In delivering his opinion the court remarked that the attention of the legislature should be called to the subject, and expressed the hope that the next legislature would pass the requisite law In the meantime if parents do not take interest enough in their children to prevent their visiting such dens as the one in question, the city fathers should pass an ordinance similar to the one adopted in San Francisco that will [illegible]. The opium smoking habit is one of the most pernicious that can [illegible] and the [illegible] of the law [illegible] over those unfortunates who have not the moral power to control [illegible]

Reward Offered.—Sheriff Jeffery offers a reward of $1 000 for the rearrest of Milton Shepardson, alias "Hoodlum," who broke jail [illegible] Monday evening Shepardson is described as follows About 40 years old about five feet eight inches in height, dark complexion, dark piercing eyes Spanish cast of features, right shoulder droops when walking or standing, hair dark and slightly mixed with grey, [illegible] out of right side when he escaped, one tooth [illegible] very restless, his motions and eyes are [illegible]. One thousand dollars reward (or a proportionate part thereof for information leading to his arrest) will be paid for his apprehension and delivery to the sheriff Exchanges through the State and Washington Territory are requested to publish the above as the same may lead to his recapture

Surprise Party.—Under the auspices of a committee of ladies and gentlemen a large crowd of the friends of Rev Mr Bentley of the Taylor Street M E Church assembled at the residence of J. F. Jones and then proceeded in a body to the parsonage, where the Rev gentleman and his excellent lady received them in their usual friendly manner. The rooms of the parsonage were filled with the crowd, and the evening passed away all too quickly in music, social converse, etc gave speed to the wings of time During the evening, a bountiful repast was partaken and the feast of reason was moderately mingled with the feast of victuals. Mr. and Mrs Bentley during their residence here have drawn around them a large circle of warm friends as the gathering in question testifies.

An "Eboard."—In speaking of this well known stage driver and messenger, the Walla Walla Union says " 'Ad. Edgar, who in former times rode the pony express to Montana from here, and [illegible] acted as messenger for Wells Fargo & Co, between this and other points, was in town last Saturday for the first time in [illegible] years. He is very confident that the men now arrested are the ones who stopped him and that Frank Tompkins and companions, who now linger in the Oregon penitentiary for that offense, will be speedily restored to that liberty of which they were deprived [illegible] circumstantial evidence

Pay Up! Pay Up!—Tax payers are reminded that the time is drawing near when all tax must be paid, or else returned delinquent. Mr Jos Bachman the city treasurer will be pleased to furnish receipts and his "sum mutual" to all who call at his office with the necessary "bullion" The tax roll is in his hands and will remain there until the 30th of this month. On that date the thirty days will have expired, and he will be compelled to return all who have not paid delinquent. A word to the wise ought to be sufficient.

Benefit Festival.—This evening the festival for the benefit of A M E Zion church will take place at the room formerly occupied by E Milwain The entertainment promises to be quite pleasant.

Musical and Literary

The Amphion Concert.—Portlanders showed their appreciation of good local talent by greeting the Amphions at their concert last night at the Masonic Temple with a crowded house and a pleased audience. This was right and proper, as several times this quartette has appeared on public occasions at [illegible] parties, etc., at the request of friends and performed their exercises gratuitously The opening performances were creditably rendered. A solo and duet by Messrs Morgan and Struble, and a duet, "Flow Gently D[illegible]" by Messrs Franklin and Struble were rendered in fine style. Mrs D W Prentice sang "The Valley of Chamouni" in such a manner as to draw loud applause and an encore The quartette, "Old Bachelor and Happy [illegible]" closed part first amidst great [illegible]. A fine piano solo was performed by Mr W B Turnbull, after which there was [illegible] by the Amphions, "Dancing o'er the Waves," which was rendered about the most successfully of any of the exercises. The duet "Music [illegible] Pupil," by May Prentice and Mr M[illegible] was one of the crowning efforts of the evening. The duet deserved the hearty encore it [illegible] A H Morgan sang the "Cradle [illegible]" which was a meritorious rendering [illegible] followed by a praiseworthy "[illegible]" by T Struble "Give me my own N[illegible]" by the quartette, was deserving of [illegible] was also the "Music Lesson" [illegible] by Mr and Mrs. D W Prentice Mr A A Franklin sang a solo, "Good bye at the Door" in a commendable manner It was [illegible] rendered and merited the hearty [illegible] encore. The Amphions sang their "Good Night" quartette with feeling and [illegible] effect which closed the entertainment It is gratifying to record that the Amphions have been so well repaid for their [illegible] kindness and that a large audience no doubt felt that the evening was one of genuine [illegible] and profit.

A LIFE IN BONDAGE

[illegible] MORMONISM [illegible] THE SORROWS [illegible] WOMEN [illegible]

Strange conflicts occur in human life Why is it that why the fierce thirty years war in Germany for the right of conscience lasted so long Why the wars of the [illegible] lasted so many years Why the war in the Netherlands was waged with such cruelty by Philip II? Why the Inquisition had such sway for centuries Why did not the people who were the tools of tyrants refuse to rob each and slay one another when they saw and felt that it riveted their own bondage Why did not the manhood in them assert itself cast off the tyrant and be true to man How is it that the lust of power the greed [illegible] and the lecherous passions of a few men can not only destroy every noble instinct of their own but also enslave hundreds and thousands to obey their mandates and gratify their vile desires in Utah?

Whoever reads this revelation of Mormonism by Ann Eliza Young will stand amazed and appalled by the facts He will have a growing respect for the woman who has written the book He will have a deepening sorrow for the sufferings of woman wife mother daughter and sister in Utah He will have a more profound sense of the honor due to woman in every relation of life He will see in the martyr story of Mrs Webb what is the crime of polygamy against God's ordinance of marriage In the hand cart scheme he will have a glimpse of the covetous monster who planned the whole The sale of the thirty thousand dollar farm to the honest English convert will reveal the [illegible] frauds of those self constituted rulers As he thinks of the aged widow of that Englishman once rich but made a pauper by these Mormon bishops, now toiling for daily bread he will get an idea of the tender mercies of tyrants

The narrative of wrongs to a [illegible] Lewis and her son will unveil the scenes of daily occurrence as other witnesses in 1861-2 testified The outrages upon the Jarvis family give signs of the wrongs to citizens in Utah What the courts found in the trial of John D Lee for his part in the Mountain Meadows massacre opens a chapter of horrors of deeper blackness than anything in the annals of savage warfare The "Endowment House" exhibits the covert lechery of their whole scheme A jury trial, on any crime or money interest of Mormons, will prove what Gentiles may expect to suffer at their hands as shown by the efforts of Judge McKean and others to get justice Every right of man is ground to powder under the iron wheel of Mormon power

It is strange that such a monstrous "imperium in imperio" can exist within the domain of the United States of America It is astonishing that men and women will visit Salt Lake, pay their respects to such official villains and gloss over their iniquities The touch of their hand is the touch of pollution Lower given them by any party is the betrayal of liberty To keep the leper of a polygamist on the floor of the House of Representatives, is to flaunt their banner of lust cruelty and crime over the whole nation

It only remains for the people of the United States and England to read such a book as this and they will put an end to the infamy of Mormon rule forever

EUGENE CITY ITEMS

The Montana people have petitioned Congress to have the Columbia river improved so that salmon can get up

Six head of horses were stolen from the ranch of [illegible] J Stone near Walla Walla on the night of the 1st inst

The Walla Walla people fear they will have a short fruit crop this year there having been some very cold weather in that section recently

The Walla Walla & Columbia River R R Co has raised the freight tariff on its narrow gauge and there is talk of going back to prairie schooners

Brigham Young has promulgated an edict forbidding that there shall henceforth be no round dancing indulged in by the faithful and moreover that all balls shall begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and close by 10 in the evening

On Saturday sixty kinds of winter wheat and twenty five kinds of spring wheat together with [illegible] different kinds of oats a specimen of hemp and [illegible] flax red clover, timothy buckwheat [illegible] millet spring and winter rye and four kinds of barley were added to the collection of grain to be sent from Olympia to the Centennial Exposition

The Echo says A snow storm visited Olympia on Saturday March 11 which more than [illegible] anything of a similar nature which we ever knew Snow flakes, which would measure two inches across fell from the heavens in wonderful rapidity As the thermometer indicated a thaw the ground was barely made white by the extraordinary amount of snow which fell in a short space of time

The Echo says In Lewis county about eight miles northwest of Boisfort there is a tract of land which has no superior in point of richness It is a rolling prairie land and is represented to have the richest of soil It is entirely dissimilar to ordinary gravelly prairies with which our Territorial readers are so familiar The Gough brothers have cut a road from Boisfort to the tract of land to which this article refers A way is now prepared for settling this magnificent prairie in the no distant future A beautiful stream of water passes through the prairie on which there is an excellent site for a mill"

The Walla Walla Union of the 11th says The Indians, known as Joseph's band consisting of about 100 big and little with a large cavalcade of horses loaded with their ictas, including wigwam poles and pappooses passed through town on Thursday en route from the Wallowa to the Umatilla reservation where they are going to have a great horse race They were the finest body of Indians we have seen for years They had some fine horses with them Among the number we noticed a counterpart of Barnum's woolly horse Joseph like his namesake of old wore garments of many colors

He was Wounding His Watch The Virginia City Nevada) Enterprise relates the following A day or two since Mr Shaw time keeper of the Consolidated Virginia Mine found a watch lying in the snow where it had evidently been dropped by some one working in or about the mine Mr Shaw wrote a notice to that effect posting it by the side of the window to which the men came to give in their names when going on or coming off their shifts Several men called and described what was according to their ideas a "valuable watch" nearly all making it gold, with a fine chain of the same metal Some set a number of beautiful pieces of gold quartz into the links of the chain At last a little Frenchman came to the window and said "You hae one vatch, Mistair Shaw?"

"Yes Sir" said Shaw "Have you lost a watch?"

"Yes sare he have I se me one vatch"

"Can you describe it?"

"Oh, yes, sare, me can describe him ver perfectly"

"Well what was it like?"

"My vatch he vas a silver vatch"

"Very good, What kind of cases?"

"Vell he have hes face [illegible] ide open

"What kind of chain?"

"One leetle brass shain

"What kind of key was on the chain?"

"Vell no key be on ze shain He have no key at all I wind him by zee tail

The watch was a stem winder and the Frenchman had given a perfect description of it even down to zee tail

Good Story Tellers.—Mr Thompson who succeeds General Butler in Congress from the Essex district is said to be one of the best story tellers in the House and has just enough impediment in his speech to spice his humorous utterances Governor Throckmorton of Texas is also a good story teller and has a great fund of them Many of the older members are strong in that way Mr Blaine is particularly happy in being always prepared to strengthen his point by a story and is the best in the telling Mr Cox is one of the best anecdotists in the country Proctor Knott has an inexhaustible budget General Cameron Senator Bayard Senator Stevenson Governor Anthony Senator McCreery and Judge Thurman are witty men and very attractive at a dinner party There are capital diners out in the Cabinet Governor Fish General Belknap Mr Bristow Governor Jewell and Mr Robeson and on the supreme court bench Chief Justice Waite Judge Swayne and two or three others

Another Endorsement Ann Eliza Young's revelation of Mormonism especially in its expose of the sufferings of women and the wrongs of citizens of the United States ought to be read by every man who respects and honors woman as mother sister wife or daughter and by every woman who honors manhood home and family and who loves virtue as every true woman does and by every patriot and Christian who would preserve the honor and liberties and rights of his country

PLUMMER FRUIT DRYER.

AS A PROOF OF WHAT I HAVE HERETOFORE stated to the people of Oregon I give below a letter from the Plummer Fruit Drying Co of East Portland After the close of business of 1875 fully endorsing it after using it one entire season and as a proof in substantiation of what they say They now contemplate putting up another Dryer of the same capacity of the one they now have which will increase their capacity to five hundred bushels of apples per day Having now located here in Portland for the purpose of supplying the demand for Fruit Dryers in Oregon and Washington Territory I can supply these Dryers at a cost of from $1,000 to $5,000 according to capacity Warranted to dry from 4 to 20 bushels of apples per hour at a small cost for labor and fuel These machines being so cheap and simple in construction they cannot fail to supersede all other known machines I would also say to the fruit growers that I have invented a Machine (and am now waiting for a patent) that will cut and spread the fruit on the trays with a very small amount of labor I have also invented a Peach Parer that is on an entirely new principle, paring soft as well as hard fruit Its work will with great speed and slices and pits the fruit ready for the Dryer in the best possible manner and at a great saving in quantity of fruit

Having become somewhat acquainted with the wants of the people I find that a cheap DRYER is what is wanted and one that will do good work and a large amount of it I have so modified my Dryer as to meet that demand and can now furnish a CHEAP DRYER to do [illegible] work as any on has large an amount of it and the price is within the reach of all

FRUIT DRYER TESTIMONIALS.

East Portland, Jan 4th 1876

Mr W S Plummer—Dear Sir As this is a time when all are much interested in Fruit Drying we think that in justice to you and for the information of the public it is but right and proper that we should give all the information that we can Now after having operated your Dryer during this season we feel warranted in saying that for the amount of money invested we still believe as we did from the start that your Dryer is the best Dryer yet introduced into this country The capacity of the Dryer we find to be about 5 (eight) bushels per hour The Dried fruit we claim to be as good as any though perhaps not as much liked as the Alden Fruit and we are satisfied that we can produce Dried Fruit at less expense than the Alden The stockholders of our Company manifested their confidence in the Plummer Dryer at our meeting last Saturday by a unanimous vote to increase the capital stock $12,000 (twelve thousand dollars) for the purpose of adding one more Dryer to the present one and making other improvements for next season We will further say that we believe that [illegible] improvement made by the patentee in the [illegible] and [illegible] that there will be an increase [illegible] capacity and a saving of fuel

There are a number of rich quartz ledges being worked in Grant county. The Cabell mine on Elk creek, has a stamp mill in operation and is rich in both silver and gold. Housman & Deitz are opening a quartz mine two miles above Canyon City. They have a well defined ledge and splendid ore.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A Republican State Convention is hereby called to convene in the city of Portland Wednesday May 3d 1876 at 11 o'clock A. M. to select six delegates to the National Republican Convention, candidates for judges of the supreme court in the second, third and fifth judicial districts, for prosecuting attorneys for the several judicial districts, three presidential electors and a candidate for representative in congress, and for transacting such other business as may come before the convention.

It is recommended that [illegible] conventions in the several counties be held as follows: Primary conventions on Wednesday April 19th and county conventions on Wednesday April 26th, or at such other times as the county committees may appoint.

The following is the apportionment of delegates in the said convention upon the basis of the Republican vote for representative in congress in 1875:

Baker	[illegible]	Linn	[illegible]
Benton	[illegible]	Marion	[illegible]
Clackamas	[illegible]	Multnomah	[illegible]
Clatsop	[illegible]	Polk	[illegible]

In making this call for a Republican State Convention, the State Central Committee realize the fact that too much importance cannot be attached to preliminary [illegible] This being a government of the people, by the people for the people, the agents or officers of the government should be in accord with the people. According to the general accepted plan of selecting candidates the first steps are taken in our primary, county and State conventions. These form the groundwork of political organization upon which the whole superstructure must stand or fall. If honest men desire honest officials it is asking too much that they lay aside for a day all other business affairs and vote the time necessary to select proper persons to attend county [illegible]

Under these circumstances some farmers have succeeded in preparing a few acres for spring sowing, but in more than a majority of instances the area ready to sow is small or [illegible] Crop [illegible] for the prosperity of this valley as far as the wheat trade for 1876 is concerned [illegible] though a few weeks of good weather intervening at an early day would greatly brighten the prospect.

Domestic Produce.

In the [illegible] trade there has not been a great deal done so far this week. To-day the wheat market showed less excitement, but prices are firmly maintained, and a good many dealers are growing strong in the hope of an advance. Unless an unusually large quantity of the cereal is held back in the granaries of the farmers and not yet stored on the lines of transportation, the clearing of the [illegible] Castle and the ships Dunnottar Castle, Samuel Watts, Trojan, Hindostan and Ben [illegible] now loading, and the Chloe, Ann Mill [illegible] and Zephyr, soon to arrive, will not leave a large surplus to engage the attention of traders for the three or four months to intervene before harvest. The present condition of the market though improved upon last week is not active by any means, and buyers claim that they [illegible] about as well be out as in the trade now. Our quotations to-day show about the range of prices.

Aside from the slight feeling in wheat there are no important changes in produce quotations, and with some increase in the volume of trade the outlook is rather encouraging than otherwise.

POND'S EXTRACT

"Hear, for I will speak of excellent things."

POND'S EXTRACT—The great Vegetable Pain Destroyer. Has been in use over thirty years, [illegible]

CHILDREN. No family can afford to be without Pond's Extract. Accidents, Bruises, Contusions, Cuts, Sprains, [illegible] Promptly relieved [illegible] Burns, Scalds, Excoriations, Chafings, Old Sores, Boils, Felons, Corns, etc. Arrests inflammation, reduces swellings, stops bleeding, removes discoloration and heals rapidly.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES. It always relieves pain in the back and loins, fullness and pressing pain in the head, nausea, vertigo.

IN LEUCORRHŒA it has no equal. All kinds of ulcerations to which ladies are subject are promptly cured. Fuller details in book accompanying each bottle.

PILES—blind or bleeding—meet prompt relief and ready cure. No case, however chronic or obstinate, can long resist its regular use.

VARICOSE VEINS. It is the only sure cure.

KIDNEY DISEASES. It has no equal for permanent cure.

BLEEDING from any cause. For this it is a specific. It has saved hundreds of lives when all other remedies failed to arrest bleeding from nose, stomach, lungs, and elsewhere.

TOOTHACHE, Earache, Neuralgia and Rheumatism are all alike relieved, and often permanently cured.

PHYSICIANS of all schools who are acquainted with Pond's Extract of Witch Hazel recommend it in their practice. We have letters of commendation from hundreds of Physicians, many of whom order it for use in their own practice. In addition to the foregoing, they order its use for Swellings of all kinds, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Inflamed Tonsils, simple and chronic Diarrhœa, Catarrh (for which it is a specific), Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Stings of Insects, Mosquitoes, etc., Chapped Hands, Face, and indeed all [illegible]

TOILET USE. Removes Soreness, Roughness and Smarting; [illegible] Cuts, Eruptions and Pimples. [illegible] Complexion.

EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New Hampshire Election.

CONCORD, March 14.—Returns from 60 towns and [illegible] give Cheney [illegible] Marcy [illegible] Kendall [illegible] scattering [illegible] In 187[illegible] the same towns [illegible] Republicans [illegible] Democrats [illegible] Prohibition, etc. 375. The Republican net [illegible] Estimated returns from 103 [illegible] this year [illegible] show the Republicans to be still gaining.

[illegible] March 14.—A Concord special to the Post [illegible] the Democrats concede a Republican victory [illegible] majority in both branches [illegible] New Hampshire [illegible] and the election of Cheney by [illegible] majority [illegible] materially affect [illegible] Later returns [illegible] one hundred and sixty six towns and [illegible] result: Cheney [illegible] Marcy [illegible] Democrats [illegible] same towns last [illegible] Democrats 25,003 [illegible] Republican net gain 2,318 [illegible]

CONCORD, March 14.—The [illegible] are confident that they have made a clean sweep and are very [illegible] They [illegible] no doubt they have elected a majority [illegible] of the Senators and the Democrats do not concede [illegible] the House [illegible] of the Republican committee [illegible] that the Republicans have elected 9 of [illegible] Senators and that they will have a majority [illegible] in the House.

[illegible] of all the returns received up to 1 [illegible] is as follows: 199 towns and wards give [illegible] Cheney [illegible] Marcy 25,296, Kendall and scatter[illegible] same towns last year gave Republicans [illegible] Democrats [illegible] Prohibition and scatter[illegible] Republican net loss 2,284. A footing of [illegible] at the same hour is as follows: 197 [illegible] and wards elect [illegible] Republicans and 139 [illegible] last year the same towns elected 119 [illegible] Democrats, which shows a [illegible] The Republican majority [illegible] House last year was [illegible] But besides Cheney [illegible] elected Governor by the people, and the Republicans claim his majority will be as high as 1,500 to [illegible] They also claim the House by from 15 to 25 [illegible] but the exact figures can only be determined by later returns. The Democrats think the [illegible] very close and in doubt. [illegible] Republicans claim 8 out of 12 Senators. The [illegible] claim a majority in the council. The Republicans probably have carried 6 out of 10 [illegible] last year the council were [illegible] Republicans and 5 Democrats. With the exception of the [illegible] the status of which can only be determined [illegible] further returns and the council which is doubtful, the Republicans have made a clean sweep.

New Hampshire Election Returns.

CONCORD, March 15.—Returns from all but ten [illegible] give Cheney 41,294, Marcy, 37,477, Kendall [illegible] scattering 419. Cheney's majority 3,417. The [illegible] to hear from gave last year Cheney [illegible] Robert (Dem.) [illegible] and White (Temperance) [illegible] Republicans elect 8 out of 12 Senators [illegible] council stands 4 Republicans to 1 Democrat [illegible] House there are 207 Republicans and 178 [illegible] Democrats. The Republican majority it is thought [illegible] be 25 or 30 in the House. The vote is increased [illegible] 1,200 over last year, being nearly 81,000, and is [illegible] largest ever cast in the State.

Republican Victory.

CONCORD, N. H. March 15.—The victory of the Republicans seems to be overwhelming. They [illegible] a good majority in the house, probably 20 or [illegible] and claim to have 9 out of 12 Senators and 4 out [illegible] councillors. Full returns of the State are not [illegible] received but enough seemingly to justify the [illegible]

Man Killed.

[illegible] PORTSMOUTH, N. H. March 15.—During the election yesterday Wm. Carty raised a disturbance and [illegible] so severely injured by policemen's clubs that [illegible] died to-day.

The Number Burned.

[illegible] CONN. March 15.—It is now believed [illegible] fourteen persons were burned in the alms[illegible] Sunday night, most of the old people from [illegible] years of age. Seven bodies taken from the [illegible] to-day were burnt to a cinder and unrecog[illegible] and five jumping from the windows, two [illegible] were fatally injured. The entire number [illegible] inmates was 54.

Impeachment of Lieut. Gov. Davis.

JACKSON, Miss., March 14.—The Senate, by a vote [illegible] 32 to 4 found Lieut. Gov. Davis guilty as charged [illegible] the articles of impeachment, one colored and [illegible] white Republicans voting in the affirmative [illegible] and four colored in the negative. The finding will [illegible] formally announced Wednesday.

Preparations for Reception.

ATLANTA, Ga. March 15.—Extensive preparations [illegible] making for the reception of Western visitors [illegible] have already arrived and 200 more are expected [illegible] day.

Cheap Transportation.

NEW YORK, March 14.—In the cheap transportation [illegible] association's meeting to-day, a report was read [illegible] showing the recent action of the freight agents [illegible] convention in equalizing freights from the West to [illegible] seaboard. The report calls this a step in the [illegible] direction, but expresses the fear that like [illegible] compact of railroads it will be short lived.

Prisoners Escaped from Jail.

[illegible] March 15.—Five prisoners, colored [illegible] being charged with rape and four with arson [illegible] escaped from Kent county jail yesterday.

CONCORD, March 15.—Returns from 215 towns and [illegible] give Cheney 36,891, Marcy, 32,526, Kendall [illegible] scattering 312. Last year the same towns gave [illegible] 34,551, Roberts 33,630, White and scatter[illegible] The Republicans have a net gain [illegible] The representatives elected from 209 towns [illegible] wards are Republicans, 169, Democrats 134, [illegible] Democratic net gain of [illegible] Meagre returns [illegible] received on the vote on the constitutional [illegible] convention but it is undoubtedly carried.

The Greenback Convention.

SYRACUSE, N. Y. March 15.—The Greenback Con[illegible] which met at the Opera House this mor[illegible] was called to order by Hon. Gideon J. Tuck[illegible] nominated ex-Speaker Mcguire temporary [illegible] chairman. [illegible] the chair, Mcguire briefly [illegible] addressed the convention reviewing the political [illegible] of Gov. Tilden and the Democratic party [illegible] F. Ransom and G. W. Maddox were appointed [illegible] temporary secretaries. A committee on permanent [illegible] organization was appointed and a recess taken [illegible] A mass meeting will be held this evening [illegible] previous to the assembling of the convention and [illegible] hundred guns fired in observance of the anni[illegible] of [illegible] Jackson's birthday.

SYRACUSE, March 15.—The New York State greenback convention reassembled this afternoon [illegible] There was a large attendance. Richard [illegible] was made permanent president. The platform [illegible] protests against the resolutions adopted by [illegible] New York Democrats for the past years, because [illegible] said resolutions are in conflict with the principles [illegible] laid down in the platform adopted by the [illegible] Democratic convention held in New York [illegible] being the last genuine national Democratic [illegible] convention held in this country, the convention [illegible] held in Baltimore in 1872 being only [illegible] ratification meeting endorsing the nomination [illegible] platform of the Liberal Republicans. [illegible] convention therefore recommends the several [illegible] districts to send delegates to the State [illegible] convention in order to select delegates for the national [illegible] Democratic convention at St. Louis and ask the [illegible] admission into that body as the true representatives [illegible] the Democracy of New York. The resolutions [illegible]
